

Co-creation week: sustainability, innovation and entrepreneurship in dietetics

20-24 April 2020

‘Artesis Plantijn University of Applied Sciences and Arts Antwerp’ and ‘The Hague University of Applied Sciences’ will organize an international co-creation week on Sustainability and Entrepreneurship within the field of Nutrition and Dietetics.

Key features

- Inspiration sessions
- Innovation and creation
- Demonstrate entrepreneurship and commercial awareness
- Students DO
- International collaboration
- Social / fun activities
- Convince an audience (at a symposium)
- Excursions in beautiful Antwerp

For who?

This week is intended for European students from Nutrition and Dietetics related programmes and of course, their lecturers. Participants from AP University Antwerp, The Hague University of Applied Sciences and Coventry University will be present, but others are kindly invited to join and by that contribute to a strong international mix and learning experience. Lecturer exchange funding is possible under Erasmus+ partner agreement.

Where?

The host city of this year’s week will be Antwerp, portal to the world and standing for trendy, creativity, global, pop-ups, fashion, art, events... and so much more!

What?

Professional skills

During this week, international groups of students will gain expertise in trending topics in the field of sustainable dietetics, also covering aspects of marketing and consumer’s behavior resulting in the setup of innovative initiatives and creating new start-ups. Lecturers from different countries will share their expertise and coach the students to be creative and successful.

International collaboration skills

Lecturers from different countries will share their expertise and coach the students to be creative and successful. Most of all, students will gain experience and skills in international collaboration, intercultural communication and build a network of friends across borders. Therefore, we will make sure there's also time for informal activities (e.g. excursions and cooking). There's plenty of room for fun!

How?

Participation to the international week is free of charge. Your accommodation, drinks and most of the food during the evening will be on your pay. This shouldn't have to be too expensive: there are quite some hostels in Antwerp as well as campus canteens to eat for a reasonable price. Information will be provided with useful tips for travelling, nice restaurants, shops and touristic activities.

Last year's evaluation was very positive: students and lecturers valued the organization, the challenging assignment and the diversity of activities and participants highly! We are eager to make it at least as great as it was then.

More info?

Koen Vanherle

Lector

International coordinator Nutrition and Dietetics
EFAD anchor @European Network of Dietetic Students

T +32 3 220 55 80 | koen.vanherle@ap.be

Artesis Plantijn Hogeschool Antwerpen | www.ap.be

Tonnie van Genugten

The Hague University of Applied Sciences

Nutrition and Dietetics

Senior lecturer
Coordinator internationalisation
E-mail: a.h.m.vangenugten@hhs.nl
Phone: +31 06 20033202