

Taormina Resolution

At the 2007 General Meeting of the European Federation of the Associations of Dietitians, held in Taormina, Italy, delegates from the 20 member associations present agreed that a new resolution, building on the aims already established by the Roskilde Resolution, was needed.

The resulting Taormina Resolution aims to:

- To set a benchmark for teachers of dietetics and quality indicators for practice education
- To define European Dietetic Competencies and prioritise Life Long Learning
- To agree a common language by defining technical terms

The DIETS Thematic Network will work towards meeting the aims of the Taormina resolution.
